

MOUNTAIN SCHOOL BARN
NE FRAME PERSPECTIVE
Not to Scale

Thanks very much for signing up for the Mountain School Barn Raising Rendezvous.

Here's what the schedule will look like in an ideal world:

Arrive on the afternoon of Sunday, August 3rd in time for 6:30 dinner.

Pitch your tent or find a room, as you prefer.

Beds will be assigned on a first come basis, unless you contact me directly between now and then.

It's good old dorm life; no singles, common bath, etc.

You WILL sign the waiver, and you may be asked to wear a wrist band.

Personal protective gear will be used, and fall protection is required for high work.

Monday will be invested in rigging and prepping for a giant hand raising that begins early on Tuesday.

It is our intention to raise this big building entirely with hand power, so anticipate a slow, and calm raising.

We'll be using a pair of shear-legs and the Guelph Bridge tackle, so it should prove instructive.

We WILL be using a crane to boom in groups of floor joists, staging and rafters, especially on the second day of raising.

We expect to start siding and sheathing and flooring on Thursday morning, and are planning a big party for Saturday afternoon and evening, with the usual kinds and qualities of food and music and dancing.

Sunday the 10th is considered a travel day.

Clearly, if we get bad weather or run into framing glitches (neither of which is likely) we could run a little long.

That's about it. This frame is all cut and ready to go, and so are we.

Call me anytime with questions.
